Even with the discounts the major U.S. brands are offering, you and your families are still paying too much for premium-quality caskets. Here is your new source for all your casket needs. There's a lot about a Sich casket that may surprise you. First, in quality detail and manufacturer support, it is equal to the finest U.S. brands, including the fact that every casket comes with up to $5 million of liability insurance. Second, the cost is at least half that of the big U.S. brands, meaning you can sell a premium-quality Sich casket for less than theirs and still make better than twice the profit. That benefits you as well as the families you serve.

It's time to forget all you thought you knew about import caskets and begin offering your families the one brand that rhymes with "switch." Call or click for the name of your nearest Sich Casket distributor today.

Every casket you sell affects not just the family you're serving but also the family you're supporting. That means having to balance retail value with your own profitability, a difficult act...until Sich. In every respect, our caskets are equal to the best-known U.S. brands except in price, which is half (or better) the cost of the domestics. So you can offer your families superior quality wood and metal caskets at prices they can more easily afford, while enjoying margins that will remind you of days long past. That's why so many funeral homes are putting Sich on a pedestal.

Sich Plantation Pecan - H2302

WHAT A SHAME TO HAVE TO BURY IT.

Compared to other works of a carver's craft, the "be" of a casket is inescapably brief. And yet, its significance demands no shortcuts or imperfections. Each panel of wood has to be perfectly matched in hue and grain. Every detail from the motion of the hardware to the lustre of the hand-polished finish, must attest to the maker's time and attention. In short, a Sich casket must be as beautiful as it is purposeful. To which, we'll also add affordable. So, while our caskets may not stay around for very long, their value surely lasts.

IS IT IN BAD TASTE TO CALL A CASKET "SEXY?"

Given our caskets' intended purpose, it may seem odd to apply words that might otherwise describe an exotic sports car. But considering that both casket and car are designed to convey the occupant in style, and both are painstakingly made by people for whom every detail matters, the comparison fits. On the other hand, ours goes from zero to profitable in just a matter of seconds.

Meer Sirus Chan. Born in Ningbo, China, educated in Toronto, Sirus returned home to build caskets for U.S. funeral homes better and more affordably than anyone thought possible. He has shown funeral directors how rethinking their casket business can lead to much higher profits while serving families better. With hundreds of hardwood and metal casket models that rival the top domestic brands in quality but at prices far below theirs, along with a national distribution network providing the personal touch, all this could only come from a casket maker who's Sirus.
